

PERSPECTIVE LIST

of the main scientific directions and the most important problems in the fields of general, social and political psychology for postgraduate students, doctoral students and degree seekers

Department of Psychology of Small Groups and Intergroup Relations

1. Regularities of the formation of group identity in the creative team.
2. Features of the formation of group identity in a conflict social environment.
3. Features of group dynamics during the restructuring of the organization.
4. Group identity in the training group as a factor of its cohesion.
5. Patterns of formation of group identity in the educational environment.
6. Identification as a mechanism of interaction in a small group.
7. Group identity as a factor of integration processes in a small group.
8. Socio-psychological conditions for the development of creativity in different age periods.
9. Socio-psychological mechanisms of the processes of individualization and deindividualization in the adolescent groups.
10. Socio-psychological features of the formation of gender identity in different age periods.
11. Features of role interaction in the school team.
12. Group myth as a factor in the formation of social identity.
13. Group myth as a psychological means of overcoming difficult social situations.
14. Features of the manifestation of psychological phenomenology at different stages of group dynamics.
15. Features of individual and group creativity as means of overcoming collective traumas.

16. Transformation of social discourses into the phenomenology of group interaction.
17. Features of group dynamics in complex social situations.
18. Dynamics of intergroup interaction in study groups.
19. The course of intergroup conflicts in space and time (on the example of football fans).
20. Collective trauma as a factor of group identity.
21. Prerequisites for intergroup interaction in communities with a complex social structure.
22. Defensive behavior of the group as a factor of intergroup conflicts.
23. Psychological foundations of the study of historical memory according to historiographic sources of Ukraine.
24. Political values of the student youth: formation, development, harmonization in the process of awareness of historical memory.
25. Historical trauma as a factor in the transformation of ethnic identity.
26. The role of archetypal symbols of Ukrainian culture in the actualization of ethnic self-consciousness.
27. The image of the future in the historical psychology of Ukraine: traditions and innovations.
28. Cultural and historical features of ethnic individuation of the individual.
29. National idea and national myth in the context of archaeological and historical research.
30. Historical memory as a discourse of individual and collective subject of nation-building.
31. Individual author's mythology in the works of fiction of modern writers: influence on readers.